

National Teaching School designated by

National College for Teaching & Leadership

Down's Syndrome in the 21st Century

11th March 2016 9am – 4pm

The Dorford Centre, Bridport Road, Dorchester

Come and discover the latest research, learning tools and techniques for pupils with Down's Syndrome. We have two key speakers; Dr Maggie Woodhouse OBE and Wendy O'Carroll, who are at the forefront of both research and practical understanding of what works well in supporting children and young people with Down's Syndrome. There will also be group workshops and an 'Any Questions' panel of experts to quiz in the afternoon session.

Dr. Maggie Woodhouse OBE, from Cardiff University, has led 20 years of research into visual development and subsequent best education practice for children and young people with Down's Syndrome.

Maggie's research is often held up as an example of how by bridging the gap between research and community, it is possible for research to translate to a real and lasting impact on the life quality and learning opportunities of those with Down's syndrome.

Wendy O'Carroll - Founder, Executive Officer and Family Support Lead of 'Ups and Downs' SW Team.

Wendy has extensive experience of working with and supporting children who have Down's Syndrome, their families, and associated professionals. Through Ups and Downs Southwest she co-ordinates and provides support, advice, information, training and awareness-raising. She is the proud parent of a 27yr old daughter, Anna, and a 19yr old son, Oliver, who has Down's Syndrome.

For further details and a booking form, please contact:

Bookings.tadss@westfield.dorset.sch.uk

Cost £99 per delegate including lunch and refreshments.

Earlybird price £79 for places booked before 15th December 2015.